—I Have a Full Line of—

PERFUMERY,

NEWS OF THE MORNING.

The funeral of the late Lord Beaconsfield takes place to-day.

The New York Post's Boston special reports the sudden death Sunday evening of James T. Fields of heart disease.

Painell, speaking at a meeting at Nevada, declared it impossible for an honest man to know what were his rights under the Land bill.

There are no prospects of the success of the Monetary Conference, and in view of the attitude of the powers a decision to postpone or even to close the deliberations may be expected shortly.

The steamship Victoria, of the anchor line from London, arrived in New York yesterday and was quarantined with several cases of small-pox in the stateroom. The patients were removed to the hospital.

The Glasgow (Scotland) papers state that Catherine Marshall, aged fourteen daughter of a railway laborer, has not taken food since the beginning of the present year. She takes a little water daily but scarcely ever sleeps. She is greatly emaciated, but her pulse is perfectly natural.

Officials figure show that the annual pay of 93 star routes out of 9,225 was raised between the lettings of 1878 and January 1, 1880, from $727,119 to $2,902,211. The regular appropriation of the route service for the year ending June 30, 1880, was $3,900,000. Of this amount $2,802,211 was absorbed by the 93 routes noted, leaving $3,097,786 for the remaining 9,132 routes.

After a continuous rise since Wednesday, the Missouri river became stationary at Council Bluffs Sunday. The water in the overflowed districts has been rising slowly, and now covers more territory than ever the river being fully seven miles wide. The worst, however, is thought to be past, and by today it is expected the water will be gradually receding. Sunday the river proper fell in such a way as encouraging. Several hundred water-bound passengers departed Sunday the outgoing trains starting from a point several miles beyond the city limits.

Yesterday the statue of the late Admiral Farragut was unveiled in Washington with imposing ceremonies. The city presented a gala appearance. Houses along Pennsylvania avenue were decorated with bunting and the portico of the Executive Mansion was tastefully draped with the national colors. The procession formed at 11 A.M. in the neighborhood of the Capitol. At 12 o'clock a gun was fired by the navy artillery, and the procession moved in a column of companies from the Capitol by Pennsylvania avenue to Fifteenth street and back to Pennsylvania avenue and Connecticut avenue to Farragut Square. When the head of the column reached Fifteenth street a gun was fired by the naval saluting battery as a signal to notify the President and Cabinet of the approach.

MORMON ABOMINATION

How to get rid of the Mormon nuisance and abomination is the one great and vital question which is likely to call into exercise the entire energies and abilities of the administration that undertakes it. President Garfield in his inaugural gave expression to some very sound sentiments upon the subject, which the decent people of the United States would like to see enforced, and he has been more recently quoted as requesting a Western Senator to agitate the matter in Congress, as he wished to make the extinction of Mormon polygamy the distinguishing feature of his administration. If he really undertakes this with a will to accomplish it in four years, he will have about the busiest and most exciting term that any President has known since Mr. Lincoln spent four years in fighting the slaveholders' rebellion. If he plans to do the work in eight years, and has it well under way three years hence, it will be an excellent card for promoting his re-election, for the people will refuse, as they did in 1861, to swap horses while crossing a stream. We think the country would be very willing to give any President eight years who should inaugurate a policy for the successful extirpation of Mormon polygamy and the bringing of the Mormon church to a condition of lawful submission to the Government before the close of the present century.

The consular reports lately issued by the State Department at Washington, in regard to the condition of the laboring classes at home and abroad, show how much better paid the laboring classes in this country are than anywhere else in civilization.

Typhoid fever is quite prevalent in Carson at present.

Secretary Windom is a bi-metalist in the fullest sense of the word, and it will be his policy to get coin into circulation as rapidly as possible. With that end in view, it is understood that $5, $2 and $1 legal tenders will be withdrawn from circulation as fast as they come into the Treasury, and if this be found to work no inconvenience, the process will be extended to $20 notes. If the Secretary can make a success of this policy, silver will soon regain its proper place, and there will be no particular necessity for the Monetary Conference to remain in session.

Out of all Europe only England and the Netherlands have reduced their debt between 1865 and 1879—that is to say, in fourteen years. In the mean time more than $8,000,000,000 had been added to the total national indebtedness of Europe, while about one-third of the national debt of this country had been paid.

The war is over! The Confederate battle flag was raised at half-mast the other day over the Survivors' Hall, in Augusta, Georgia, in token of respect to the memory of General Martin W. Gary of South Carolina, who was an honorary member of the Confederate Survivors' Association.

It is presumed President Barnard, of Columbia College, New York, will succeed White as Minister of the United States at Berlin. This appointment would continue the tradition which has invariably conferred the post on some distinguished man of letters.

The vigilantes have sent the gamblers and roughts away from Answorth, on the N. P. R. R. in Washington Territory where construction is in progress. They were given but twenty-four hours time.

The reduction in rates on the Carson & Colorado road is probably caused by the fact that a fast freight line has been put on between Carson and Bodie.

POSTAL SAVINGS BANKS.

(Sacramento Bee.)

The United States will come to time on the postal savings banks by and by. The system has been a grand success in England and Canada also, and this fact may give courage to members of Congress and cause them to act. It is the duty of a government to inculcate in its people habits of economy and to set an example of thrift, not of penuriousness, but of care in its outlays, doing all necessary things and doing them well, and paying for them only current rates. And in no smaller way can a government do better by its people than in providing for them secure depositories for their little savings and allowing them some, even the lowest interest thereon. If postal savings banks had been established in the United States ten years ago the Government would in all probability, have enough money now on deposit to pay a large portion of the national debt and while the interest might not be less than it is it would be better distributed, so that instead of a few men getting it all the multitude would have the benefit thereof. It makes much difference to the prosperity of a country whether the seventy-five millions now paid in interests annually upon our bonds, be given to a comparatively few or distributed largely among the people.

A Fearful Power

(Virginia Chronicle.)

It is not to be wondered at that the railroad kings of the country are careless of public opinion and laugh at the idea that the people will ever be able to bring them under control. In a money point of view the railroad interest is greater than that of the government. It collects and disburses more than the government. It owes more and pays more interest. Two years ago the capital stock of railroads amounted $2,322,257,877. The debt of the same roads was $2,480,030,483. It is stated that a quarter of a million are employed by these roads in various capacities. The number of stockholders and persons indirectly interested in the ownership is estimated at about the same figures as employees. The capital stock of the railroads was equal to about one-seventh of the assessed value of property in the Union. Their earnings were twice as much as the total receipts of the United States government and their profits were 25,000,000 more than the entire expenditure of the government. Railroads are being built now as fast as ever and the statistics of 1879 are much under present figures.

The National Anti-Monopoly League has offered a battle to this colossal power. The League fights against railroads, the railroad interest controls most of the State Legislatures and Congress and the Executive branch of the Federal government. It controls the Associated Press, through which most of the newspapers of the country get their news. It owns or controls a large number of prominent newspapers professing to be the organs of each of the political parties.

Enormous as is the wealth of the railroad power powerful as is its hold upon the State and Federal governments, and extensive as are its means for misleading the public as to the principles advocated by its opponents and of confusing the minds of the people as to the issues at stake, we yet believe that in the end the Anti-Monopoly League, or the political party which adopts its platform will win. We believe this because we believe that though the people are slow to move they are not fools and that no amount of sophistry will reconcile a man to being robbed. The people are fifty millions strong and the day they learn that fact the country will cease to be dominated by the railroad power.

CUNNING LITTLE OXES

Quaint and Original Sayings of "Our Boys and Girls."

The San Francisco Post lately offered a prize of $10 for the quaintest original saying of a child. To give our readers an idea of the answers received we quote the following as examples.

"Little boy learning his catechism from his mother. Q.—What is a man's chief end? A.—His head!"

"As we were talking one day about churches, and their curious ceremonies, a little boy remarked: 'That he had seen a christening, a funeral, and a wedding, but he had never seen a divorce!'"

Mamma.—And David was able to kill that great big man Goliath, because God helped him. Harry (aged six).—Well, I don't call that fair, mamma, that's two against one.

Jack (aged four, taking walk).—What becomes of people when they die? Mamma.—They turn into dust, dear Jack.—What a lot of people there must be on this road then!

Tottie.—I wonder why dolls are always girls, Tom?—Because boys hate to be made babies of.

A child, seeing a bill on a telegraph post. "Oh, mamma, look! A message has fallen down!"

A pious boy of six years listening wearily to a long windy tale related by a proxy relative, took advantage of a short pause to say, slyly: "I wish that story had been brought out in numbers."

"Little baby is very ill, Charles, I am afraid he will die." "Well, if he does die, mamma, he won't go to the bad place?" "Why, Charles, how can you know that?" "Oh, I know he can't because I've got no teeth to gnash."

Girl (yawning over lessons).—I'm so tired, I should like to go to sleep. Boy.—I'll tell you what to do, then, get up early to-morrow, and have a good sleep before breakfast.

A little girl had a penny given her to put in the collection box at church. When she dropped in the coin she exclaimed: "That's the way the money goes, pop goes the weasel!"

Small boy (watching his sister iron a piece of work with bird's nest of eggs done in crevices on it).—I say, sister, if you keep the iron so long on those eggs you'll hatch 'em!

A little girl, seeing two love birds billing and cooing, was told that they were making love. "Why don't they marry?" she asked, "then they would not make love any more!"

A fond mother said to her little son: "Tommy, my dear, I am going to give you a little companion soon, which would you prefer, a little boy or a little girl?" "Well, mother," replied Tommy, "if it is all the same to you, I would rather have a little doukey!"

A little girl, aged five, going to bed one night, and kneeling down to say her prayers said: "O, mamma, may I only say amen to night? I am so tired."

In accordance with numerous requests received from Eastern readers and others to extend the time in which to observe and send in the remarks of the witty "little ones," the Post has decided to fix the date on which competition will close at June 4th, thus giving all ample opportunity to join in the contest, which, it is hoped, will be a spirited one.

A New Forage Plant Wanted

Before the introduction of alfalfa, the farmers of California were clamoring for a forage plant that would keep green during the long dry season, and continue to furnish dairy cows with milk-making food. After years of experiment alfalfa was accepted as just the plant they had been looking for. The Sacramento Record Union adds:

The introduction of alfalfa had the effect of advancing the productive capacity of the lower alluvial lands of the State more than fifty per cent., and advanced these lands at least that amount in actual money value in the market.

The river lands became the best alfalfa, and hence the best dairy lands, and have so maintained their position until a few years past they have been losing ground on account of the filling in of the beds of the rivers, and consequent overflow of the bordering lands. Alfalfa is a plant that cannot live any length of time under water or under the influence of stagnant water that fills the soil to the surface during the warm weather of the spring months. As a result of these facts the farmers along the low river bottoms will be compelled to abandon alfalfa as a forage plant, and unless they can find some other grass to take its place, that will furnish a constant supply of green feed in summer, and will live through the overflows of winter and spring, their lands must suffer depreciation in productive capacity and money value. A new forage plant is therefore in demand—a perennial that will live through the long, dry summers, and give out its green feed, and one that will combine the quality of living under water during the winter and spring. Whoever can discover such a forage plant will confer a great benefit on the river farmers and the State.

One of the most notable of many notable novelties in Steele Mackay's new theater in New York will be the so-called "invisible" chairs. All the seats will be constructed in such a manner that the occupants, at the close of the performance, will only have to touch a spring when the framework will collapse and become part and parcel of the floor. The advantages of this device are too obvious to need demonstration, as the disappearance of the rows of seats would enable everybody to move in a direct line for the doors, and greatly simplify all hitherto known methods of exit. That the idea is not fanciful is proven by the fact that the model is now being perfected and, what is more to the purpose, patented.

Griff has declined the office of Third Assistant Postmaster General. Probably thinks he ought to have a Cabinet position.

If you want to know how cheap corn, or picture molding, or picture frames can be sold, call and find out at Osburn & Shoemaker's.

CROP PROSPECTS.

Flattering Outlook in all Parts of the State.

The following exhibit of the crop prospect, carefully compiled by agents of the Carson Appeal, will forever set at rest the report that Nevada produces nothing but gold and silver.

STORNEY

The wheat yield of American Flat and Mount Davidson will be double that of last year. In the back yard of the Con. Virginia office three square feet of Siberian wheat is beginning to show itself. It is watered every morning by J. Minor Taylor with a garden hose.

PURFKA

W. W. Hobart writes from Eureka that Jack Perry has quite a lot of barley growing on the top of an ale barrel in his saloon. The hollow spot on the top of the barrel was filled with dirt and sown with some barley sent from Washington by Congressman Daggett. Over three hundred spears of grain are already up. With enough barrels the barley of Eureka county would be second to none in the State.

WASHOE

Ex-Senator Powning is training hop vines all over the rear of his office. With enough newspaper offices to hold up the vines the hop yield of Washoe county would build up a new industry. All the vines need is support.

ELKO

If there is no frost, the jumpsen weeds of Elko county will run forty bushels to the acre.

ORMSBY

Corn has made its appearance for the first time in years. With a good bull dog six or seven stalks can be protected from the grasshoppers. No one seems to know who gathers the hay crop in the Capitol square. Watermelons will do well anywhere in Nevada. If a man can plant enough to supply his thieving neighbors and a few over, he can have some for himself. In an open country where the soil is moist, with a southwest exposure, it is cheaper to steal from an open field than to the expense of putting in a separate crop. The baggage smashers and freight agents on the trans-report good crops of California fruit all along the V & T and C. P. divisions.

Nevada Crystal Salt Co

Articles of incorporation of this company have been filed with the Secretary of State. Its purpose is to manufacture and sell salt at White Plain, Churchill county, and at Buffalo Springs, Lewis Junction and Battle Mountain, Lander county, Nevada. Battle Mountain is the principal place of business, term of existence, 50 years, capital stock, $100,000, in $1 shares. Trustees, 3—John Kenney, Richard Amerman and F. W. Dunn, all of Battle Mountain.

Increase of Capital Stock

The Directors of the Nevada Central Railway which runs from Battle Mountain to Austin, have increased their capital stock from $3,000 per mile, total $750,000, to $10,000 per mile, total $1,000,000. The bonded debt of the Company is $750,000, other debts and liabilities, $160,000. Total debt, $910,000. The managing Directors are Anson Phelps Stokes, Daniel B. Hatch, Benj. B. Sherman and Robert J. Walker.

Eureka Flouring Mill Co

Articles of incorporation of said Company have been filed at the office of the Secretary of State. Object, to erect a flouring mill at Elko and carry on such business. Capital stock, $10,000, term of existence, 50 years. Trustees, 5—E. J. Jones, E. Odell, J. P. Edoff, John Amley and F. E. Brown.

THE BELCHER GOING TO WORK ITS LOW GRADE ORE.—E. miners were put to work at the Belcher shaft Sunday, and it is the intention of that company to work the body of low grade ore that Mr. Briggs was working on contract. It will be hoisted to the surface through the Crown Point and shipped to the Brunswick mill, on the Carson river. Rumor has it that 100 men will be put to work shortly.—[Gold Hill News.]

To Ranchers and Gardeners

RANCHERS and GARDENERS can save time and money by purchasing their Field, Flower and Vegetable seeds, alfalfa, timothy, red top, blue grass, lawn grass, red and white clover, onion sets, etc., at Queen's Drug Store, west side Virginia St. Buying in large lots of the famous Eastern houses of Vick, Landreth and Perry I am able to sell all seeds at lowest western prices. Saving freight and other expenses to all persons wishing seed.

Reform Club

There was a large crowd at Reform Club Hall Saturday evening The entertainment opened by singing one of the Club songs When there are so many voices (the audience nearly all join in the singing) it is very seldom that the songs go smoothly If some gentleman could be found, with a good strong voice, who would stand near the piano and lead the singing, there would be a decided improvement in time and tune Miss Emma Cutting played a familiar instrumental selection Helen Sample recited "A True Story of a Band of Hope Boys" That sad yet satisfying poem, "The Angels of Buena Vista," was read by Miss Hattie Lewis "My Heart is Over the Sea" was the title of Mrs Hilliard's vocal solo Lillie Stalker recited some beautiful lines, telling how little children with quick sympathies and loving acts brought peace and happiness to the heart of a poor, desolate old woman Miss Irene Valott and Mr O Hildebrandt gave a brilliant instrumental duet The usual order was reversed, the gentleman taking the leading part and the lady second Mr Finley Cook sang "The Goodbye at the Cottage Door" The Shells we Gathered Years Ago a kind of requiem over lost joys was sung by Miss Louise Mosher Miss Sessions recited "Jane Conquest," a wonderfully interesting story of a woman's suffering, self sacrifice and heroism at a time when many lives depended upon her action The house was very quiet during the recitation Miss Toombs sang the well-known, yet never worn out lines, commencing, "One Summer Eve" The Riverside Quartette had a very fine selection, but not sufficient practice to enable them to give a perfect rendition Try it again boys Little Mick Sample had, as usual a decidedly comic recitation Bishop Whitaker addressed the Club on the subject of "Temperance" The Bishop takes a liberal stand on this question While not agreeing entirely with the views of Dr Crosby of New York he still concurs in the general drift of his arguments He believes that as methods are secondary to the aim in view no true worker should refuse to co operate with others whose policy perhaps may be different The speaker closed his address by advising the Club to take a broad view of this matter, and bid them God speed in their work
